Education Board Membership Of Nine Approved by Voters

Annual school meeting votes to retain present number Approves budget—Four are nominated for three positions.

Miss Helen Smith, retired school teacher, was given 41 of 43 votes cast for school trustees for the Addison Free School District at the elections held Wednesday afternoon. Chosen to serve additional three-year terms were Mrs. Susan D. Perry with 33 votes and Belden Ackerson with 32 votes. The votes cast for Miss Smith show the highest percentage cast for any one trustee in several years of school balloting. Leon Callahan received 17 votes for trustee.

Mrs. Carrie LaGrange received 43 votes for library trustee, also an unusual vote inasmuch as there was no opposition and all voters had to check her name.

Miss Smith stated after the elections that her name had been placed in nomination unbeknown to her and that she did not feel that she would serve at this time. She served the local school for several years as teacher and instructor, only retiring in June of 1939. The voting was light and scattered throughout the afternoon. This is the lightest vote cast in a school election in several years, partially due to no conflicting parties.

All of the children are recommended by Catholic, Jewish and Protestant social welfare agencies in the city. SAVE THE CHILDREN!

Americans who wish to make a personal, major contribution to those unfortunates in the war area can well consider the idea of adopting a British child for the duration of the war. This has been done in certain instances, some wealthy persons having agreed to support British children. The rich Barbara Hutton will spend a small fortune taking care of children in a wholesome manner, while J. P. Morgan is taking some British children into his own home for the duration. There are also hundreds of plain Americans who are sending to England for children whom they know, or whose families they know, enabling the little ones to get to a place of safety in this country.

However, these cases are a mere drop in the bucket compared to the actual need existing. In the British Isles are literally millions of young children in imminent danger of death by Nazi bombs. Some of these children are being brought across the Atlantic to Canada and safety, but the number amounts to only about 8,000 a month, a mere handful of the great number threatened by the horrible instruments of modern war which strikes down the innocent along with military objectives. Canada is a big country geographically, but is really a tiny country numerically, and our Canadian neighbors can provide homes for relatively few of their threatened English cousins of juvenile age.

The United States with a population of some twelve times that of Canada has millions of homes in which British children could be brought to a safe refuge. Millions of homes in which it would be no financial hardship to feed one or two extra mouths while the conflict lasts in Britain. And millions of our childless homes would be immeasurably brightened and made happier by temporarily adopting one or more war refugees.

At present immigration restrictions are very rigid. It requires a vast amount of red tape to bring children from Britain under the provisions of our existing laws. But this is a condition with which Congress could deal promptly and effectively. We do not want the regular provisions of immigration laws relaxed, but the country could well afford to temper those laws to meet the present emergency and allow families of established reputation to provide U. S. havens for the beleaguered children of England.

Americans are almost universally sympathetic with the life and death struggle Britain faces with the totalitarian states. Yet the feeling of most Americans is against throwing our country into a war we are not prepared to fight. Hence we stand conscience-stricken—torn between a desire to help the British and a will to keep out of European quarrels. In this national quandary Americans could make the greatest present-day contribution to civilization by volunteering to take care of the British children during these times of the empire's emergency. If five million or more children could be evacuated from Britain it would help the government immeasurably during the days of drastic defense just ahead. The load of care for these children in danger, would be removed from the government already burdened with defense problems. The British men would fight more doggedly if they knew their children had been removed to safety. And this wholesale evacuation would lighten the burden of feeding a population which will be subject to stringent blockade during the months which the battle of Britain will probably consume.

What a contribution to humanity an American family could make by giving a temporary home to one or more of these children! Who knows what a permanent contribution to society such temporary adoption might prove? For the races of Europe are now engaged in a life and death struggle which may end with supremacy for no one knows what race. These British children are of Anglo-Saxon blood and, to bring them to a safe haven on this side of the Atlantic is to preserve that blood for the benefit of future generations.

Whether Britain wins or loses this present conflict with Germany one probability stands in bold certainty in the outline of future history. Canada which is now a dominion of some 11,000,000 inhabitants is destined to become the future seat of the British Empire. If we can save five million British children to help populate this future great country to our north, we will have made an extraordinary contribution to the perpetuation of the race to which our own country owes most.

Above all, if we Americans open our land and open our individual homes to take in these homeless waifs who are today threatened with horrible death by the bombing monsters from Germany, we will be doing the most Christian act in the history of the world. We call ourselves a Christian nation. We pride ourselves that we believe in the principles of Christian brotherhood and are averse to carrying wars to helpless people. Let us prove that we are a Christian nation in deeds as well as words by making a way and providing a refuge for these little ones.

It was no one less than Christ who said: "Suffer the little ones to come unto me, and forbid them not..." Today there is flung forth to us a real challenge from this same Christ—Let us accept this challenge and leave no stone unturned to provide temporary American homes for the threatened children of Britain.

OUR WAY OF LIFE

Writing in Fortune a short time ago, Wendell Willkie said: "This effort to separate 'business' from the ordinary life of the people and to set it in a distinct and inferior category represents a profoundly false conception of our economic system. There are about 10,000,000 private enterprises in the U. S., which employ about 34,000,000 people, who in turn support many millions of other people. Business is a part of life and a way of life. By it we earn our bread, build our homes, care for our children, find expression for ourselves. Every one of us lives directly or indirectly by business... It is business, in the broadest sense of the word—including industry and technology, and including the modern farm, which is a business enterprise—that has made the American people so great."

For a long time, we, the people, who live by business, have sat supinely by while the public servants who manage our governmental affairs denounced business, reviled business, fought business and attempted to destroy private business at every opportunity. The result was the greatest and longest business depression in our history.

And now, almost overnight, we find it imperative that we embark on an unprecedented program of defense rearmament. Do we turn to politicians in this emergency? No! We turn to business, to industry, to the great factories of America. The principal members of the preparedness board lately appointed by the President are businessmen. And that is as it should be. Even as industry must provide us with the tools of peace, must it provide us with the weapons of defense.

It has taken the direst of crises to reawaken us to the role that private industry plays in our lives. Let us not forget it again.

MASTER MINDS

Last year the "hit of the show" at the New York World Fair was the great railroad exhibit, called "Railroads on Parade". The dramatic critics of leading newspapers no less than the general public, came, saw, and were conquered. This year the exhibit has been further improved and broadened, and again tens of thousands of people will be treated to a vivid, dramatic portrayal of what rail transportation means to our national life.

Even as the rails were the greatest civilizers of the past, they are the great maintainers of the civilization of the present. They are among our most vital instruments of service in normal, peaceful times. And in these chaotic days of crisis and emergency, their importance becomes all the greater. No one knows what demands the nation may make upon the railroads in the days to come, but experts who have studied the situation are certain that those demands will be met—efficiently, economically and without needless delay. There is more to a railroad industry than a collection of locomotives and tracks and stations and cars and yards. These are the tools which, if they are to be effective, must be guided by master minds. And there the American railroads lead all others. There can be no question of the vision, patriotism and creative ability of the men who guide this great industry. The recent statements of Assistant Secretary of War Johnson, in which he praised without qualification the work of the railroads in cooperating with the War Department in defense plans, is a remarkable tribute to railroad efficiency today.

Yes, the railroads are ready—ready for any conceivable need that may come.

FIRES YOU MIGHT HAVE STARTED

Did you ever think of all the fires you might have started?

You've probably thrown burning cigarette butts out of your car window on hundreds of occasions. If luck was with you, nothing happened. Had luck not prevailed, one of those butts might have been the source of a fire that would have destroyed a fine farm, grain stacked in fields, or thousands of acres of unreplaceable woodland.

Remember the time you put a penny back of a fuse to get the electricity flowing? You were lucky that time too, as the house didn't burn down. There was a very good chance, however, that it would.

And how about all the odds and ends of junk you've stored away in attics, closets, basements, etc., figuring to get rid of them on some vague future day? Accumulations like that may go in for years and do no harm—or, if the breaks are against you, they may start or feed a destructive blaze any minute.

And don't forget those occasions on which you took it for granted that you'd get away with postponing necessary heating, wiring, chimney and similar repairs until another time.

All of us have come within an ace of starting fires on more occasions than it is pleasant to count. And every so often luck turns—and life and property is needlessly destroyed as a consequence. Keep that in mind—and you won't be taking so great a chance with fire in the future.

ASK
The Scientist

If you have a question to ask the scientists, mail it to the New York Press Association, The Castle, Syracuse, N. Y. The Science Board of the Radio Workshop at Syracuse University will answer each week in the columns of this paper those questions considered most interesting and timely.

QUESTION. Which would receive the greatest impulse, a baseball pitched at 110 miles per hour and hit by a bat swung at approximately the same speed or a golf ball hit off the tee by a driver at 110 miles per hour?

ANSWER. More data than the question includes is needed to determine the impulses accurately. But if we assume that the baseball may be hit about 400 feet while the golf ball may go about 400 yards, it turns out that the baseball receives about four or five times the impulse that the golf ball does.—Dr. William R. Fredrickson, physicist.

QUESTION. Can a pitcher throw a ball at 110 miles per hour?

ANSWER. If you reduce 110 miles per hour to feet per second it is about 160 feet per second. That means that if the pitcher threw a ball at an angle of 45 degrees, he could throw that ball about 800 feet which is about twice the distance from home plate to the outfield fence. Walter Johnson in his prime could throw a baseball about 122 feet a second which is about 25 miles per hour.—Dr. Fredrickson.

QUESTION. How can one get rid of large black ants?

ANSWER. The only way to get rid of ants promptly is to get rid of the queen ant. It is not very difficult to destroy worker ants with poison and if they are destroyed often enough it might discourage the colony.

Most ants can be traced to their dens although in some cases this cannot be done. The best way to destroy a den of ants is to put carbon bisulphide under the nests. It is possible to make a poison solution that will destroy many kinds of ants. A solution of 125 grains of arsenate of soda and one pound of sugar, mixed in a quart of water and boiled until it is in solution will be eaten by many types of ants and they will carry it back to the nest and feed it to the queen ant. That will destroy the queen ant and eventually the whole colony.—Dr. Verlus Lindeman, physiologist.

QUESTION. Is there any geological basis for the existence of the continent Atlantis?

ANSWER. The old theory of Atlantis is a legend which has come down to us from the Greeks. Plato is said to have learned it from the Egyptian priests. It deals with an imaginary island somewhere out in the Atlantic which existed in very ancient times and on which a magnificent civilization and culture arose.

This island, due to the wickedness of the people, was sunk in a great catastrophe and only a few

The FAITH THAT IS AMERICA by WENDELL WILLKIE

I BELIEVE in America because in it we are free—free to choose our government, to speak our minds, to observe our different religions;

Because we are generous with our freedom—we share our rights with those who disagree with us;

Because we hate no people and covet no people's land;

Because we are blessed with a natural and varied abundance;

Because we set no limit to a man's achievement; in mine, factory, field, or service in business or the arts, an able man, regardless of class or creed, can realize his ambition;

Because we have great dreams—and because we have the opportunity to make those dreams come true.

people escaped. That legend has captured the imaginations of people all down through the centuries and a great many versions of the tale of Atlantis have been told.

In the last century some geologists have tried to find traces of it, but conservative geologic opinion today is definitely set that there never was any such continent on this earth.—Dr. Sidman Poole, geographer.

QUESTION. Can plants be raised in water to which chemicals have been added?

ANSWER. In 1699 an Englishman named John Woodward grew potatoes in spring water. Recently, however, this field of growing plants without soil has received great publicity from Dr. Gericke of the University of California. He grew tomatoes as large as small trees and tobacco plants 20 inches high. He is able to grow as much as 217 tons of tomatoes per acre as compared to the usual yield of about 5 tons when the plants are grown in soil.

Several official bulletins on this subject have been issued by the New Jersey experiment station, Purdue University, and the University of California.—Dr. Albert E. Elder, chemist.

QUESTION. Why do Negroes show such proficiency in track events?

ANSWER. Athletic ability of Negroes is not limited to track events. At present the Negro dominates our sports in various fields, especially in fighting. On a percentage basis there are more Negroes excelling in athletic ability than whites.

Prof. H. H. Bartlett of the University of Michigan, a geneticist, has said that it is probably due to these Negroes being descendants from some Negroes who were imported here from a very strong tribe of African Negroes in the past.

I have a theory that these Negroes are showing what is known as hybrid vigor. To use the mule as an example, the mule is a hybrid between the donkey and the horse and has a bigger kick than either parent. It is a biological phenomenon commonly known among scientists that descendants of wide racial crossings often show this high vigor which may be the explanation of Negro athletic prowess. The final explanation may involve both theories just cited.—Dr. Ernest Reed, geneticist.

Risk Death Again

Indianapolis headlines will risk life and limb once again in the 100-mile national championship automobile race to be held Labor Day, Sept. 2nd, closing day, at the 100th anniversary New York State Fair, Syracuse. Practically every one of the nation's foremost speedway stars will compete in the speed classic, which is second only in world importance to the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Indian Arboretum

An Indian arboretum, the only one in the world, will be a feature of the Indian Village at the 100th anniversary of New York State Fair, Syracuse, Aug. 25th—Sept. 2nd. A total of 6500 Indians, living on 8,700 acres of land in the Empire State, will contribute plants, trees, grasses, etc., for the arboretum.

The Rambler

People often wonder how news-writers determine how to write a story to appeal to the greatest number. Surveys have been made and the average intellect is 12 years. Now, don't get sore at this underestimation of your intelligence. But before you get hasty listen: Comic strips are on the increase in circulation and number and they add nothing to the adult mind; popular music—such things as "Nyaa, nyaa, nyaa said the little fox" and "little fishes in the brook, etc"; motion pictures—greatest money picture to date "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and this certainly is not an intellectual picture; game fads—Chinese checkers which can be played expertly by the 12-year-old; radio—top ranking programs are those which require little mental concentration (although quiz programs are on the increase). So figure it out for yourself.

George Freeman is wearing a nobby 20-year service pin on his vest, that is on the few occasions when he does dress up and wear a vest. George is one of the most enthusiastic workers in the electric company and is in demand when anything goes wrong between Elmira and Harnett, it seems. In fact he is out so much that his wife feels almost like a widow. Congratulations George on the recognition of your years of splendid service.

Another landmark has been removed. It was not one that was too well known to the public. I'm speaking of the horse shelter in the rear of the post office. For years farmers drove their horses into the alley there and parked the horses under the sheltering roof. However, some abused the privilege and left horses there too long and others would not tie horses, in close with the result that wagon stuck out in the alley and blocked traffic for the many trucks and mail rias which have to use the alley. So the shelter was removed.

Leap year is being observed by some women in Chicago, who have arranged a series of dates for Wednesday nights to take their husbands to church. The clergyman is co-operating by preaching a series of appropriate sermons on the purposes and background of the faith they possess.

Claude R. Bradley of Naples picked three strawberries from his garden and the three weighed one-fourth pound. A mark for local strawberry growers to shoot at.

That clever "Jeeves" man who writes "Just What We Hear" in the Avoca Herald opines that maybe Avoca will have a population equal to Addison in 10 years. Well, "Jeeves" at the rate Avoca increased in the past ten years, it will take 13 years more to catch up with us.

No. 6

Johann Gutenberg was born at Mainz, Germany, about 1400, of a well-to-do family. While still young, he and his aristocratic family were driven into exile by a popular uprising in his native city. Taking up residence in Strasbourg, Gutenberg lived comfortably for a while on an inherited income and began his first experiments in printing. In 1439 he was involved in a lawsuit, subsequently dismissed, concerning a business partnership which, it is evident, had something to do with printing.

He returned to Mainz in 1448 where, seven years later, he was again defendant in a lawsuit. Gutenberg, it appears, had borrowed money from one Johann Fust in order "to finish the work". Fust sued to recover the money, and likely won for he became owner of much printing equipment in Mainz. The "work" referred to was in the nature of printing financed by Fust, for in the suit there was mention of parchment, paper, ink, and so on for "the work on the books."

On January 17, 1465 Archbishop Adolf of Mainz appointed Gutenberg his servant and courtier for life by reason of the "grateful and willing service which he had rendered to him and to his order and may and will render in the future". Whether this was a reward for politics or for typographic is not known. Where he died and where he was buried are not revealed in historical records. He died shortly prior to February 26, 1468, the date of the so-called Humery document by which a Dr. Konrad Humery, of Mainz, gave a gift to the archbishop for "certain forms, letters, instruments, tools, and other things belonging to the work of printing which Johann Gutenberg left after his death, and which were and still are mine."

Keep your chin up, Jeeves!

Lattimer Brewster informs the Rambler that he has a sewing machine he will give to some needy family if they will call for it. The machine is in good condition.

I beef about this every year and the same thing happens at every annual school meeting. There is a $270,000 plant spending nearly $60,000 per year in operation and yet only 26 people turn out to pass on the budget and choose the persons who will run the business. I've requested! And as usual, many of those who did not attend the meeting, will be the severest critics of the administration of the school.

Got quite a kick out of going to the carnival Monday night and seeing the game enthusiasts carrying away their prizes. Jay Mose and his chair and Charlie Crane and his doll and basket of groceries and I never saw so many cans of coffee being carried before.

Addison again mourns. Two veterans died during the past week, men who have meant much to the community. The first was Sam C. Erwin, long identified in Masonic circles and in the grocery business here. The second was Charles Cook, retired railroad veteran.

The elephant herd on the Charles Crane lawn seems to be increasing. Last year there was just a single elephant. This spring I discovered a little elephant with lifted trunk and just a short time ago a third was added to the herd.

It is seldom that I enthuse over a carnival concession but there is one in Addison this week that struck me as unusual and something really worth seeing. That is the war panorama or to me the Cavalcade of War. One sees in miniature the soldiers marching to war, boarding ships for the battlefields, the shots and shells on the battlefield, the wounded and dying, the burials, the gold star mothers, all moving in miniature. As you look at it you realize the noise, the horror and the effects of war and are thankful for the protection of America as you see the Stars and Stripes hailed to the top of the flagpole and voices ring out in singing, "God Bless America".

The firemen's carnival this week brought smiles to several residents for an incident which might have had serious consequences. It seems the fire alarm rang Tuesday and the firemen dashed to the fire house to get their truck out, and the door was blocked by a carnival company trailer. No fault of the carnival company management, but of the fire police on duty during the week.

SAFETY ADVICE

Ed's Note: First in a series of articles on safety prepared to warn children and adults of accidents:

No. 1 — Cooperation
The Police Department of this community asks your cooperation in reducing traffic accidents.

You, Mr. Driver, and you, Mr. Pedestrian, must do your part. Your part, Mr. Driver, is to obey traffic rules. Traffic regulations are not put in force to annoy you. They are put in force to help you.

Traffic regulations, Mr. Driver, make it easier and in many cases quicker for you to get to the place you want to go. Certainly they make your trip safer—both for you and for others.

Consider traffic lights as devices which clear the way for you to proceed quickly and surely, not as obstacles to your progress.

Think what a jumble traffic would be if there were no signal lights at important intersections. Obey traffic signals both in spirit and to the letter and you make your trip quicker, easier and safer—for yourself and the other fellow.

And now a word to you, Mr. Pedestrian. Your part is to watch your step. Cross the streets at intersections—and not in the center of a block. Cross with traffic lights and not against them. Look both ways before stepping from the curb. Don't put yourself on the spot.

To reduce accidents every motorist must drive carefully. Both must obey traffic signals.

Your safety, Mr. Driver, and yours, Mr. Pedestrian, depends largely upon you yourself. Safety is something that cannot be left to others. Do your part to make our streets safe and many of our accidents will be avoided.

It's up to you, Mr. Driver—and to you, Mr. Pedestrian. Make up your mind to work in the cause of safety and not against it.

Every time you try to "beat a red light," Mr. Motorist, you are putting an accident. Every time you "jay-walk," Mr. Pedestrian, you are taking a risk. Both of you are endangering the efforts of others to make our streets safer.

But when you drivers "wait for the signal"—when you pedestrians "cross with traffic," you not only minimize the risk of accident, but you set up a good example to others. You help to promote safety in motoring.

Please help to reduce traffic accidents. They can be stopped. Drive carefully! Walk carefully! Obey traffic regulations!

Summer Dessert Suggestions

Putting new toppings on desserts is a grand idea; it's easy to follow through with all the delicious fruits, berries and melons that are at your disposal in summer. A tart, fruity sauce, lightly speeded, steps up the plainest of pastry or other baked desserts while candied fruits, coconut and nuts can put new glamour into cake and cookie coatings. And peach, raspberry, blueberry and other fruit sauces greatly flatter frozen and gelatin desserts.

If you have a favorite recipe—please send it along. Contributions to this department will be welcomed.

Dump No. 2

The attention of Addison officials directed to the dumping of rubbish in small amounts, as nails, wire, metal scraps and other sharp objects in the street along the south side of Wombough street where people park their cars. This has been going on for four or five years or more and is getting worse.

People from the country unwittingly drive upon these objects in parking their cars. Pileups of boards with the nails sticking up. Drawing racks, always with their points upward of course, which had likely been used for nearby bill posting. Broken glass, and this week I saw a lot of electric light bulbs that had been dumped there. Some of this rubbish had been burned leaving the sharp metallic parts behind.

Of course if Addison wants this as a dumping yard, all well and good. But if so, and this thing is to continue, in order that people can know what they are driving into, I suggest that the Mayor cause signs to be erected there reading "ADDISON DUMP No. 2."

Yours truly,
Emery H. Chase

War's Reality Shown in Logan Exhibit Here

The Rambler

A hobby became an obsession and an obsession became a livelihood for David Logan of Syracuse and the result of this hobby brought to Addison something of what war is like. He is here with the Pioneer Shows this week. The Rambler seldom promotes in his column of writings, but this is one time I'm going to deviate.

When one sees and hears the miniature war staged by Mr. Logan, one realizes the magnitude of a real war and what a "war of nerves" really means and why nerves are frayed and why nations so quickly capitulate to the mechanized forces of totalitarian states.

I went to the show Tuesday night. It is a series of events beginning with soldiers in forts and camps in America, little men march, board ships, cannons fire at submarines, soldiers die, are brought home for burial, mothers show letters from sons abroad and the finale is the burial of a "buddy" by soldiers and the lowering of the American flag in the "twilight's last gleam".

Mr. Logan spent five years building this electrically operated device which contains over 1300 individual movements of the various guns, soldiers, ships, airplanes which fire actual powder and burn when fired upon. One button starts a synchronized series of events which last for 23 minutes. But at its conclusion, most of the people with whom I talked, said that if the horrors and noise of a miniature battle and the firing of guns was so strong as shown here, what must a real battle be like? They then breathed sighs of relief that they were in America and not subjected to a "blitzkrieg".

Mr. Logan is to be commended for the patience in building such a project. He is a pioneer in a new field of educational entertainment.

Farm Bureau Reports Gain In Program

The mid year check up indicates that the Steuben County Farm Bureau program is meeting with unusual success, and that 1940 will be a banner year in the history of the organization.

The announcement is made by A. E. Scudder, chairman of the farm bureau committee, who points to the fact that to July 1, more than 3100 farmers attended the 64 meetings held by the association, including the 13th Steuben County Potato Convention, oldest and largest potato meeting held in the United States, the annual Dairy Convention, a series of winter poultry meetings, the 7th Dairy Banquet, and many other large and successful meetings for which Steuben County is well noted.

In the six months the Employment Service Bureau has handled 450 applications, has found jobs for scores of idle men and competent hired help for as many short-handed farmers.

Farm bureau services are in greater demand as indicated by the increase in the use of the sheep dipping service, which this year handled 4,100 head as compared with 3,300 a year ago. Twenty-five hundred cows are on test in the five dairy herd improvement associations. Thousands of bushels of certified seed were purchased by local growers through Farm Bureau efforts this spring.

And finally Mr. Scudder points to the fact that with 1,307 paid members, there were 1,092 last year. Steuben is one of the top farm bureau counties of the state and that it has in 1940 the largest membership in its history.

Farm Program to Supply Fertilizer

Superphosphate, one of the essential fertilizers for crop production in Steuben county, is available on a grant and aid basis in the same manner as lime has been in the last year.

The distribution is for the benefit of the 3,300 farmers who are enrolled in the Agricultural Conservation program.

Under the grant and aid provision, superphosphate is bought by program, where formerly the co-operator made the purchase and was later reimbursed.

Farmers who have not used up their soil building allowance in grant of aid lime may have superphosphate furnished them to apply to pasture, hayland or seeding. The cost to the farmer, delivered to his place, will be seven cents per hundred at time of placing his order and the remainder of the cost of $17 a ton will be deducted from the soil building allowance for the farm.

The fertilizer is to be applied at the rate of 300 pounds to the acre before October 31, and application is to be made at the county office of the Agricultural Conservation Association, third floor of the Farmers' & Mechanics' Bank Building, Bath.

"Keep War Away From America by Aiding Allies" Says Committee

In a communication to Katharine Darrin chairman of Addison Chapter of the Non-partisan Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, William Allen White, national chairman, declared today that "the American people may soon come to the tragic realization that our foreign policy and the Monroe Doctrine have been operating behind the British fleet."

"If that fleet surrenders or is scuttled," Mr. White wrote, "we must meet with a one-ocean navy a two-ocean danger, and meet it soon."

"Who will imagine that a victorious Hitler will not try to collect as a spoil of victory the Caribbean and West Indian Islands which control our Panama Canal? The Panama Canal is the main artery of American commerce. To defend ourselves, we must do everything to help Great Britain and her Allies, short of actually taking up arms, that will insure our security on this continent."

In another communication received from Clark M. Eichelberger, national director of the White Committee, Mr. Eichelberger wrote:

"There are those shell-shocked by Hitler's blitzkrieg, which moved with unparalleled speed to destroy the Scandinavian countries, the Low Countries and now France, who would write off the British Commonwealth as already lost."

"This attitude is more than foolish. It is a fatal delusion. The British Commonwealth has great resources. Its sovereignty is to be found not only in England but in dominions in Asia and in the New World. Its capacity for resistance, even for waging aggressive warfare particularly on the sea, to the eventual defeat of Germany, is still great. We still have time to supply Britain with such parts of our present army and navy materials in the way of planes and ships as can be spared, and further to speed up our industrial output so that we may furnish Britain the 'cloud of planes' that Reynaud of France asked for too late."

Pointing out that the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies must also continue to fight "defeatism", Mr. Eichelberger stated that "There are certain people who, because they are defeated or because they are anti-British would abandon the British Empire with a gesture, and say that we should concentrate only on the defense of our shores."

"The policy of our Committee is that wherever men are fighting the battle of human freedom, that is the first line of American defense" wrote Mr. Eichelberger. "We have faith in the determination of the British to resist, and if they are able to resist successfully they will be doing what this committee has urged; keeping the war away from America by aiding the Allies."

Old Timers Oppose Merchants In Baseball Comeback Saturday

The Rambler

Saturday will be the day to test, whether old age is better than youth. For on that day the Nine-Old-Men-Who-Were-Not-Good-Enough (Indian name) will oppose the Addison Merchants on the high school diamond for one of the best games of baseball to be played in Addison this year.

The prospects for the game weakened earlier in the week when the management of the Merchants began to find excuses for not playing the game. Cries of "fraud cat" and similar things have had the desired effect, and the game is scheduled to be played at 2:30 o'clock.

The NOMWWNGE (Nine-Old-Men-Who-Were-Not-Good-Enough) have been practicing in secret sessions, but not altogether, in anticipation for this game and are assuring the fans as well as the Merchants that they will give a good account of themselves.

If the Merchants do not play this game, the baseball fans who have been supporting the team have promised me that they will not support the team in future activities.

The NOMWWNGE will bring back into play several former high school stars who have retired on their laurels during the past year. Also several who are now playing in other fields because they were told they were not good enough here, will appear in uniform against the Merchants.

Wheelock Death Rests With The Governor

Governor Herbert H. Lehman is considering the appeal of Norman I. Wheelock for executive clemency. Wheelock is in prison awaiting death by electrocution for the sex slaying of Evelyn Reed, Penn Yan school girl. He is sentenced to die the week of July 29.

Wheelock was represented by Attorney W. Earle Costello and Attorney Alton J. Wightman, both appointed by the court to defend Wheelock. They contend that their client was insane at the time of the murder and that the death penalty was too severe.

District Attorney George A. King stated that the prosecution could not recommend clemency for it is the belief of the prosecution that Evelyn Reed was killed "to keep her from talking".

Other witnesses at the Albany hearing Monday were, BCI Inspector Eugene Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wheelock, Bradley Kirschberg, ballistics expert of Schneetady. Parents of the Reed girl were in Albany but did not attend the hearing.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

Naval actions continued to hold the spot-light of European war activities the past week. The sea fights started with Britain sinking several strong units of the French fleet at Oran, Africa following an ultimatum to the French commanders calling for the latter to hand the ships to the British, scuttle them or intern them for the duration of the war. Commanders of French warships at Alexandria have agreed to demilitarize their vessels to cooperate with the British. The latter also made way with the French battleship Richelieu, mightiest of the French navy which was only recently launched.

Night and day plane attacks have been made every day the past week upon England, as the Nazis prepare for the invasion of Britain. Meanwhile the British air forces have struck back with bombing raids on the Ruhr industrial area, the Rhine section and military dumps in Holland and France. The Nazi attacks are thought to be mere preludes to the terrible air offense Hitler will unleash against Britain later.

Admiral Sir Barry Domville, former director of the British intelligence service was arrested this week with his wife in connection with Fifth Column activities. Domville resigned his position in 1936 and at the outbreak of the war became more than friendly with the Nazi leaders.

Developments in eastern Europe are being watched intently these days following the march of Red troops into the repatriated province of Bessarabia. The Russian Black Sea fleet was reported maneuvering off the Bulgarian port of Varna. Turkey is nervously awaiting for expected Red demands for new shipping rights in the Dardanelles, while King Carol of Rumania has established a dictatorship in his depleted country giving great power to the Iron Guard party sympathetic to the Nazis.

Vanquished France appears on the threshold of a dictatorship under the nominal head of Marshall Petain who arranged the surrender of his liberty loving people to the Nazis. Reports indicate Petain would be only nominally in power with a triumvirate of French leaders including Gen. Weygand reshaping France, under the guidance of the German conquerors.

Japanese military men in Shanghai are demanding an apology for alleged mistreatment of Jap plain clothesmen who were taken into custody by U. S. marines. Col. De Witt Peck, U. S. commander bluntly retorted the Jap claim was "a lie". The incident is only one of several Jap moves against British French and this country the last few days indicating an ambition to drive western nations from places of influence in the Orient. British dealing with the French fleet has served to weaken Jap backbones a little, however.

One hundred lives were lost in the Mexican general election Sunday as supporters of both candidates for president turned from ballots to bullets. Both Gen. Camacho and Gen. Almazan claimed victory, but the results will not be known until the Mexican Congress meets in September.

Jim Farley after a talk with the President Sunday stated he now knew the answer to the question of the third term—but he refused to tell anyone else. In Chicago-Democratic aspirants to the high office have quite generally given up hopes for themselves. Sen. Wheeler and Vice President Garner are the only candidates opening headquarters to contest for the nomination. Mystery concerning the Roosevelt answer on a third term has thrown the Democratic delegates into a state of confusion.

Admiral Richardson, commander of the U. S. Fleet arrived in Washington unheralded this week where he had a conference with the President regarding fleet expansion plans. No explanation was made for the trip of the Admiral from the base in Hawaii some 5500 miles away.

Hearings were held in Congress Monday on legislation requiring members of the German-American Bund and the Communist Party to register with the government and disclose details of their activities. Wilhelm Kunze, Bund leader opposed the bill saying it would force his organization out of existence.

Senators who opposed the confirmation of Republicans Knox and Stimson as secretaries of the Navy and War, stated their belief the appointments were a step towards war. Sen. Holt, Democrat, of W. Virginia said: "America is on the

Painted Post Imperials, Steuben League Leaders, Here Sunday

The Painted Post Imperials, winners of the last nine games in the Steuben County League, will oppose the Addison Merchants here Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. This promises to be the toughest baseball team the Merchants will encounter during this season.

ADDISON MIDGETS WIN

The Addison Midgets defeated the Painted Post Midgets here Tuesday afternoon 8 to 7 in the last inning. The visitors outhit the locals on the extra base hits. Thomas was pitched for the visitors and Ricker for the locals. Both were knocked for several hits. Errors were costly for the visitors, especially on overthrows of the bases.

Mrs. Richard Sheehan and daughter Eleanor are visiting her sister, Mrs. John Thompson. Leo Brown who is employed near Prescho spent Sunday at his home here.
